actor. (Gal. vl. 7.) In their envious hostilly to Paul the Jews (id) not consider that they were jeopardizing their own interests. The message of the preaction of him was their good, and their rejection of him was the same as their own rejection from all the nirelless and honors offered by the gospit. Paul put this point to them in very strong words, saying, that as they deemed them selves unworthy they were therefore rejected. This was acreating to the very word of Jesus (Matt. xxi. 45), spoken in his life time. Here, Faul was at liberty to them in sistent having discharged his obligation to Jews, he projected to give himself to the ministry of the Katte Howell, daughter of Warborden Underground Rallings.
